Who should attend?

All P-12 teachers, counselors, paraprofessionals, administrators, and PACE student ambassadors. Planning time is built in to each session so attendance by building teams or pairs is encouraged!

You'll have the opportunity to:

- Learn from Ryan Healy, a 2019 Washington State Teacher of the Year finalist. He will present: "Who Needs SEL & Character Development? ... Everyone!"
- Collaborate with colleagues in level-specific break-out sessions: Elementary, Middle and High School.
- Hear from 2019 PACE School of Character Award winners
- Explore free resources & materials
- Expand your tool box with ideas from peers about school-wide and classroom-based social, emotional and character development

Ryan Healy 2019
Teacher of the Year
Finalist

Ryan Healy, a teacher at Ridgeline Middle School in Yelm, WA for the last 13 years, is the 2019 Capital Region ESD 113 Teacher of the Year. He was instrumental in developing a transformative student leadership program focused on social and emotional learning skills and character development at his school.

As a teacher of five daily SEL & Character Development classes, Ryan believes deeply in the power of developing good character and continues to serve many of his former students and colleagues long after they leave his school. He is fond of saying "relationships matter" and advocates providing others with the tools to build great relationships in their own lives.
