Use your dinner time conversation to discuss some scenarios your children may face and how they can respond to them with integrity. Constructing such scenarios will enable your child understand that they should do the correct thing even though it may not be the popular choice. Some possible questions for discussion are listed below:

- “What would you do if you saw one of your friends stealing a candy bar at the store?”
- “What would you do if you found an answer sheet to an upcoming test?”
- “How would you respond if you witnessed bullying at school or online?”
